BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION. The Thirtieth Day of May in each year has been made a legal holiday in Wisconsin, not alone as a public and official recognition of the patriotic services of the soldiers and sailors whose fidelity and valor rescued our nation from impending dissolution, but also to remove all semblance of justification for omitting to conform to the custom which has hallowed and set apart that day for decorating the graves of deceased soldiers:

Therefore, I. William E. Smith, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, recommend to all the people of the State, that they do this year observe this day in a befitting manner. Wherever it is practicable, let strewing of flowers be supplemented with parades and music and orations, and if in any place public ceremonies are not held, let some patriotic and public-spirited man, woman or child see to it that no soldier's grave is without a tribute of spring flowers. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affix [Great Seal.] ed. Done at the Capitol, in the city of Madison, this fifth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one WILLIAM E. SMITH. By the Governor:

HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

The State pioneer association will meet at the capitol in Madison, on Wednesday, June 1, to commemorate the beginning of the State government, and as a general anniversary experiences.

The Democratic party is in full sympathy with Conkling. It is setting him on the administration by giving him aid and comfort. The party expects to profit by Conkling's war against the President.

Mr. Conkling's greatest effort of his life should be made in the attempt to solidify and harmonize the Republican party. There would be clapping of hands from Main, to California if he would do that.

Dorsey and Wilcox are representative Republicans.—Madison Democrat.

Under the influence of a Democratic House of Representatives and a Democratic post-office committee. they have become representative swindlers. They are, therefore, out of the Republican

You can't "most always tell." The death of Thomas A. Scott, the great railway magnate, was reported in several papers on Monday. He was very low and so mgh unto death that several papers took time by the forelock and announced his death. But since then he has risen from his bed and his physicians hope that he will recover.

newspapers in the United States to be about equal to the whole number of newspapers of a'l kinds fifty years ago-962. Of these nearly one-eighth are printed in New York, Pennsylvania second and Illinois third on the list. The $13,775 a year, and another from $8,000 aggregate daily circulation of the daily to $72,000, and so on. All the telegrams newspapers of the country is estimated at 3,580,000.

John Hosie, a veteran miner, recently died at Scranton, Pennsylvania, who had a most miraculous escape from death in the Carbondale coal mine d'saster in 1846. This terrible calamity occurred on the morning of January 12, about an hour after work began. At first there was a rumbling sound like distant thunder, and this was followed by the collapse of about fifty acres of mine along the mountein side, filling the underground galleries with death and terror. Fifty miner were instantly killed where they stood. Others were imprisoned in narrow chambers, where their skeletons were found months afterwards. John Hosie was rescued after a week's con finement in the ruins.

The Inter Ocean pays its attention to the Gazette's Chicago correspondent, in this fashion: "Attention has heretofore been called to the remarkable information which is communicated to the Janesville Gazette by its correspondent in Chicago. He would make his fortune in writing like the arrogance that attempts romances. In his last letter he casually to compel men to kneel before the arromentions the discovery of a gold mine by a laborer in digging some post-holes near the city limits of Chicago, and remarks, and whose purpose is to rule or ruin "Future developments are awaited with They Idon't like that motive which is intense interest." The identity of this correspondent is studiously concealed, but the general impression is that no one but Wilbur F. Storey could do such fine writing" Comparing the Gazette's cor- at his beck. They want every man to ident said to-day that he thought the respondent with Wilbur F. Storey, of the have his place, and every man to do his nomination would be withdrawn if the Times, is not very flattering to our cor- duty. They want honor and manliness

Ex-Governor Washburn is immensely rich. He owns the largest flouring mills in the United States, and has a princely meome every year. In this case riches have fallen into good hands. His benefactions are many and quite important. He erected the Washburn Observatory at Madison, and endowed it handsomely, at a cost of tens of thousands of dollars He has done a great many kind things which will cause the people of Wisconsin to remember him gratefully, and it will please the people much to learn that he is still giving of his abundant means. His Edgewood property near Madison, containing thirty-four acres, with a stately mansion upon it and many other build ings, has just been given to the Sisters of the order of St. Dominica, for educational purposes. Mr. Washburn's health has been poor of late, and for rest and treatment he will start for Europe on the 20th of the present month.

DISQUALIFIED JUSTICES.

The Legislature of last winter enacted a law which amended the revised statutes as to the qualification of justices of the peace, in this that their bonds had to be approved by two town supervisors instead of the chairman, as formerly. By a little blunder the law did not go into effect until the latter part of March, and by that time many justices of the peace in the State had been elected and quali fied in the old way. This condition of things caused considerable discussion among the newly elected justices, and surrounded their qualification with many doubts that the matter was referred to Secretary of State Warner, and by him to the Attorney General, when the following opinion was furnish-

Madison, May 10, 1881. Hon. H. B. Warner, Secretary of State:—
DRAR STR; All justices of the peace elected at the last spring election should have taken an oath of office and filed a bond approved as prescribed by chapter 45, laws or 1881, within the time prescribed by said chapter. The failure to file this bond within such time vacated the office so far as the election was concerned. The justice who held the office at the time of the election would be entitled to hold it until some person elec-, ted, either for a full term or to fill a vacancy should qualify in accordance with the provisions of chapter 45, laws of 1881.

H. W. CHYNOWETH, Assistant Attorney General According to this opinion the failure of any justice to qualify in compliance with the provisions of the new law, vacates the office so far as the incumbentelect is concerned. This will make sorry work among justices who had a struggle for an election and who now find they are ousted by being ignorance of the law.

THE STAR ROUTE THIEVES.

For the past two or three days the telegraph has brought over from Oregon some interesting facts in regard to the robberies committed by the star route contractors, and especially by ex-Senator Dorsey, of Arkansas. The testimony goes to prove that Dorsey engaged in the star route swindle in 1879, and at that time hired a man named Wilcox to go to Oregon and get up petitions from that State to have the mail routes expedited He paid this Wilcox $5 a day and his expenses. The instructions to Wilcox to the mode of proceedure were in Dorsey's hand writing, so that there is one important point gained. In these instructions appears the following paragraph, which also is in ex-Senator Dorsey's hand:

"Instruction to Wilcox: Of course you want the wording as well as the handwriting of each! person to be a different

The meaning of this is that in putting on fictitious names he was to exercise care in changing the hand-writing so that The census shows the number of daily there would not be too much similarity. Well, Wilcox did a good piece of work for Dorsey. He got up petitions of great length and astounding influence. The routes were expedited in a hurry. One route was raised from $1,800 to sent from Dorsey in the spring of 1879 (he left the Senate March 4, 1879) to Wilcox, in Oregon, show there was rascality going on in the ster route business, and the facts which have recently come to light as telegraphed from Portland establish the garlt of ex-Senator Dorsey. There does not appear to be any way of escape for Dorsey. Brady can say for himself that he was either idiotic or incompetent, but Dorsey can hardly make

THE UNDER DOG IN THE FIGHT.

There are a great many persons throughout the country who will have the deepest sympathy for the President for the reason that there is an organized attempt by Conkling and his friends to rob him of his right to be absolutely the President of the United States. The great mass of the Republican party are intelligent men. They are men who read, and men who think for themselves. They don't like vaulting ambition. They don't like the aristocracy that tramples under- ling will feel as though an amicable adfoot every one who doesn't bow his neck to power and place. They don't gant. They don't like that sort of dictation which comes from a selfish spirit prompted by personal aggrandizement. They don't want any one man to feel that he is the government of the United States, and that others must come and go to wear the crown, and arrogance an pride to go in rags.

For these reasons the great mass of the people stand by the President in his at tempt to perform the duties of President They feel that he is the under dog in the fight, and they propose to stand by him when Conkling threatens to become the administration. We don't mean by this that the President is by any means free from blame in stirring up this unfortunate controversy. We don't pretend that the President acted wisely in making a change in the New York custom house at a reliable source, and it is said that Senthis particular time, and we doubt the wisdom of withdrawing the New York nominations for the reason that some of fully than the writer of the newspaper the best men in the State were unnecessarily sacrificed on account the dispute between the administration and Conkling. And inasmuch as Judge Robertson, though a Grant bolter, and that is the only objection the

a man of stirling worth and excellent capacity, we believe he should be confirmed regardless of Mr. Conkling's opinion. In dealing with this question it is well to be candid and to stick to the facts, and it may as well be said here that of all the nominations the President has madeconsiderably over two hundred-the Conkling faction has far more than any other faction, and that in all the nominations the President named but one in which he took a personal interest, and that was Judge Robertson. It does seem that when the Conkling men got the lion's share of the offices, they should at least show a single spark of liberality by voting for the confirmation of the judge. We don't blame Conkling for not admiring Robertson. We don't blame him for voting against his confirmation. We don't blame either of the New York Senators for opposing him in a manly way, but we do blame Conkling for placing the party in peril simply because he can't have his own way.

ROBERTSON'S CASE.

The President Not Accessible - Prob ability of an Amicable Understanding and Peace to the Ranks. Washington, May 11.—About a dozen

Republican Senators went to the White House this morning to see the President and found he was not accessible, having been kept up the greater part of the previous night by the illness of Mrs. Garfield. The day, which might have been occupied in pleading for a harmonious settlement of differences, is therefore

An administration Senator, who is one of the recognized champions of the President, celled upon him last night after the caucus adjourned. In describing his visit this Senator said went to the White House determined to endeavor duce General Garfield to withdraw Robertson's nomination. After hearing the President talk half an hour I did not press the argument I had intended to use, and when I came away I believed that Mr. Robertson should be confirmed without further parley." Senators can hear remarkably excellent arguments just now at either end of the avenue. Mr. Conkling's powers of rhetoric are unequaled, and the President is by no means a poor talker. From conversations with those who are known to be nearest the President, it is inferred ithat he is not averse to meeting the Senators half way in their labors to re-establish cordial relations.

The President to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock will meet a party of Senators and confer with them on the situation. It is certain that the friends of Conk justment of differences might be made they have unquestionably derived strength from the plain avowal of their position in the caucus, and sympathies which were previously with the Presi-dent are now on the side of Mr. Conkling The Senator from New York is quite as desirous of avoiding a quarrel as the President has been, and friends of both gentlemen express strong hopes of final ly bringing music out of discord.

The adherents of Senator Conkling are ersistent in demanding the withdrawal of Mr. Robertson to be collector of the port of New York. A friend of the Pres-Senate had given the President evidence that it was disposed to consider his nomination fairly, this gentleman thought President Garfield would be willing to withdraw Robertson's nomination. On the other hand, friends of the President and of Mr. Blaine maintain that no

MILWAUKEE, May 11.—The strike of the switchmen on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad has, at last, assumed an ugly shape. At 2 o'clock this morning there was great excitement in the company's yards on the South Side over an attempt to assassinate one of the night foremen by means of a nitro-glycerine bomb. At the hour mentioned a detonation in effect like that of the discharge of a cannon startled the residents in the vicinity of where the dastardly perpetrated. The outrage was shock was so great that the glass in the windows for squares around was shattered. People who were awakened rushed to the scene, and found that bombs had been thrown at Michael Keiser, a yard foreman, who was riding down the track on a switch engine with the engineer and fireman. Keiser has made himself obnoxious to the strikers by refusing to receive overtures from them. Fortunate ly, there was a ditch filled with mud along the track, and the Nihilistic bomb struck in instead in front of the engine falling as was intended. As it was only a small fragment of the deadly missive struck the engine, and it did no other harm than to damage it slightly. The escape of the three men on the engine seems miraculous almost. The ground for yards around was torn up and the mud was scattered a distance of 100 feet, On searching, another bomb was discovered that had stuck in the mud and failed to explode. It is a crude affair, six inches long and several inches in diameter, filled with nitro glycerine and slugs. It is

At the close of the session, on the following Tuesday evening, the editors and their ladies will occupy the Pullman cars in waiting to carry them to Washington, D. C., where there will be an exursion down the Potomac to Mount Vernon and the battle fields of Bull Run Antietam, Fredericksburg, and Gettysburg. The association will call in a body at the White House.

SEEKING A SINECURE.

Madison, May 11.-Congressman L. B. Caswell arrived here this afternoon to confer with Henry Harden in reference to the collectorship of internal revenue in this district. Harden is present collector, and is desirous of being his own successor, but has held office for nine years, and J. H. Waggoner, chief clerk of land office, and Colonel Thomas Reynolds, formerly pension that here, are anxious one of them be appointed to the position, which is a sinecure, with $2,750 annual salary. Congressman Caswell is backing Harden for reappointment. Waggoner has the support of Congress-man Hazleton, of the Third district, and Reynolds is favored by Senator Sawyer. Had Waggoner stayed out, the chances are that Reynolds would be recommended, as Congressman Williams has but one county in the district, and would not probably, enter objections. Harden is unpopular, and is likely to experience trouble in keeping his office.

IS HE DEAD?

HANNIBAL, Mo., May 11-There was rather a curious thing happened here to day. A Colonel A. N. Devoe, who had been connected with a newspaper there, and well known and esteemed went to St. Joseph last week. Telegrams were received here Monday morning from the Bacon house, where he had stopped, that Devoe had committed suicide by taking morphine. Later in the day particulars were telegraphed to the evening paper here by the St. Joseph Gazette This morning the conductor of No. 4 Hannibal and St. Joe train, reported that Devoe came in with him this morning. A Mr. Green, an operator in the St. Joe Senate would first rescind its previous office, reports having seen and talked decision to lay the Robertson nomination with him. Mr. Bliss, of the Park hotel over until next December. After the here, came in to-day, and reports having seen Devoe in Chicago yesterday morn ing. All these are reliable men. The St. Joe Gazette, of Tuesday morning, gives full particulars of the suicide, and states the body is there in the hands of an undertaker, waiting for the father of the deceased in New York, who had been communicated with, and heard from. It is not doubted here that Devoe is dead, yet the story altogether is a singular one and the coincidences curious.

THE TROUBLE CAUSED BY AN OLD

RAG MAN. There is an old adage to the effect that a woman is at the bottom of every trouble in this world of ours. Taking McSwyny Court as a smaller sphere existing within and encircled by a greater orbit, and we find that the adage will hold good to its application therein. Dionysius McSwyny, after his experi-ence recently, is no doubt fully prepared to confirm the truth of the proverb above referred to, for he has been in great trouble, brought about and concocted by his wife, Anastasia, although without any malice aforethought or premeditated design on the lady's part, she being the innocent cause of the whole row; and the second agent of the fomenting of the disturbance has been a pair of trousers. Now, a pair of trousers are not troublesome in themselves, unless ill-made or too tight for comfort, but these particular trousers have been the means of raising the deuce in the McSwynian household, and, as a consequence, in McSwyny Court.

It seems that Dionysius had a pair of blue trousers, which, for some months back he has discarded wearing, having donned an entire suit of block cheviet.

donned an entire suit of black cheviot. which the trousers would not match. and, therefore, were laid aside. They hung on a peg in one of the McSwyn-ian bed-rooms, and were rapidly be-coming nseless save from the utilitarian standpoint of the old rag man. Anastasia McSwyny, being of an economical disposition, got tired of seeing the trousers hanging on a peg and of no earthly use to the owner, her husband, so that, upon a certain morning of last week, when Dominick Philethus McGruder, the junkman of McSwyny Court, went by the McSwynian domicile with his ringing bells clanging over his junk cart, Anastasia went to the door and called him.

"Good mornin', Mrs. McSwyny," said McGruder, with a smile, but never pausing for breath as he went on: "Rags-an'-bottles-to-sell! any ould r-a-g-s!"

"Good mornin', Mr. McGruder," responded Anastasia; "how do you do "Quite well, ma'am, thank ye. How's the ould man? Rags-an-bottles-to-sell!

any ould r-a-g-s!"

"He's nicely, Mr. McGruder," answered Mrs. McSwyny. "I've an' ould pair of trousers here I'd like to sell ye."

"All right, ma'am," responded Me-Gruder, taking the article and examining it closely. "How's your daughters, Mary Ann and Anny? Rags-an'bottles-to-sell! any ould r-a-g-s!"
"They're well, Mr. McGruder, an'

how much are the trousers worth, an' is your wife in good health?" answered and queried Mrs. McSwyny cordially. glad to hear ye're all well, but all I can give ye for the trousers is twinty-five cints. Rags-an'-bottles-to-sell! any ould "Twinty-five cints!" echoed Mrs. McSwyny, in astonishment. "Is that all ye'll give me for a handsome blue trousers belongin' to a suit Dionysius paid fifteen dollars for to order of little Tooley, the tailor, only six months ago, an' a foine fit they were, more betoken the coat an' vesht were so tight across the waist as to burst the first day he wore 'em!" "Well, ma'am," went on the Mo-Gruder, soothingly, "d'ye moind, they is only good for ould rags now, though I might sell thim to Solomon Isaacs, the ould clo' man on the block above.

I'll make it fifty, but not a cint more, an' thin it may be a losin' speckilation.

Rags-an'-bottles-to-sell! Any ould

"Well, take thim," responded Mrs. McSwyny; "they're no good to Dionysius any more, an' I'm sure I can't

"You're the first woman I ever heerd acknowledge that thin," jocosely an-swered the McGruder, as he threw the trousers into his cart. "Tin, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty cents. There ye are, ma'am; good day, Mrs. McSwyny. Rags-an'-bottles-to-sell! Any ould

An old junkman trudged along with his cart, singing his invitation to trade, while Mrs. McSwyny went indoors rejoicing in the possession of fifty cents additional pin-money. It flashed across her mind at the last moment that possibly Dionysias might have left some important papers in the pockets, or perhaps even money, and she hastened to the door again intending to call McGruder back. But he had long since disappeared from view, and Mrs. McSwyny was forced to return comforting herself with the reflection that she was possibly mistaken in her supposititious fears.

Two days afterwards. Dionysius was looking curiously about the bedroom, evidently hunting for something, when Mrs. McSwyny passed by the door leading to the kitchen.

"Anastashia," called out Dionysius, "did you see air an ould blue trousers o' mine hanging up here?"
"A blue trousers?" echoed Mrs. Mc-

Swyny. "Do ye mane that dirty ould thing ye've had hangin' there for a month back?"

"That dirty ould thing is jist the wan do mane," iterated Dionysius. "Where's it gone to, I'dlike to know." "Where do ye s'pose it'd go to," answered Mrs. McSwyny, indignantly, "like the old rag it was, but to the junk dealers?"

"What?" yelled Dionysius, leaping three feet from the floor in his excite-

"Yis," answered Mrs. McSwyny, composedly enough, yet not without a certain misgiving. "I sold it two days ago to old McGruder for old rags."
"Tare an' ouns," roared Dionysius, dancing on the floor with madness;

"are ye mad, woman alive?" "Aisy, Dionysius, aisy now," went on Mrs. McSwyny. "Don't go about like a lunatic havin' a dose of the jimjams. I'm not mad, thin."

"Be heavens, woman," responded Dionysius, confronting his wife angrily, "ye'll drive me mad wid yer lack of common sinse. Do ye not know that I got little Tooley the tailor to sew three hundred dollars in greenbacks in the waisht of that flannel trousers?"

"O, murther, murther!" wailed Anastasia, as Dionysius rushed into the street excitedly. Tenants in McSwyny Court must have thought him a madman, from the manner in which he hurried along the sidewalk, running into and over everybody. At last he reached the junkman's, who keeps next door to Winkelmyer's grocery.

"Have ye a blue flannel trousers o' mine here, McGruder?" he asked, excitedly.

"A blue flannel throusers," answered McGruder, meditatively; "I think so, Mac. I recollect buyin' wan av yer

"Yis, bad scran to her for sellin' that same, an' it not half worn," went on "Frederick James," called McGruder, to his son, "what's bekim av that blue flannel throusers I bought two or three days ago?' "Why, dad," responded Federick James, promptly, "don't you recollect? You sold it to Solomon Isaacs yesterday afternoon for a dollar."

Dionysius didn't wait to hear any more, but rushed madly out of the shop, and away he went at a go-as-you-please gait on the last mile, for Isaac's store. "Have ye a blue flannel trousers from McGruder here?" he repeated, as Isaac bid him good morning.

"A blue flannel trousers?" queried Solomon, as he looked about his store. "I puy me one of dose lasht night, I think."
"Where is it?" asked McSwyny, hurriedly. "I'll buy it av ye at double what ye paid McGruder for it." "I sell him again dish mornin' for ziven dollar und fifdy scent," explained Isaacs, graciously, "to dat young mon wat lifes down by der Court. His name ish—Rachel! Rachel!"

"Vot you vant, fader?" came a voice from the back room, evidently belonging to Rachel.

"Vot ish der name oof dot young mon vot puy dose plue flannel trousers dish mornin' for ziven dollar und fifdy scent?" asked Solomon. "You mean dot mon vot vore a plue shirt mit short hair, fader?" queried

"Yes, my tearsh," Solomon answered; "dot young mon vot beat me down from five dollar to half prize." "Dot young mon's name ish Rooderig Allphonso Moriarity," answered Rachel.

Dionysius thanked Solomon and Rachel Isaacs for their courtesy and started out in search of Roderick Alphonsus Moriarity; and it is safe to say that he never had such a hard day's traveling. He (Moriarity) had just left Tim O'Shaughnessy's saloon in company with Tim, and had gone down to Mulvaney's livery stable. Here they parted company, Mulvaney told him, for Roderick Alphonsus had gone to a funeral with one of his (Mulvaney's) drivers. When Dionysius got to the home of his late lamented, the mournful cortege had started for the cemetery. Over to the cemetery followed Dionysius, only to find when he had got there that the interment had taken place, and back to the city came the half-crazed man to Mulvaney's. The driver was found here, but not Roderick Alphonsus, who had left him to go to the theater with Tim O'Shaughnessy and Felix Vincent O'Dwyer. Fortunately for Dionysius, he caught the boys on the way, and offered ten dol-lars for an immediate delivery of the troublesome trousers, besides volunteering to purchase a new pair at once. Roderick Alphonsus consenting with pleasure, the exchange was made at a near-by clothing house, and in the presence of the gang, Dionysius quickly ripped open the waist lining and found the three hundred dollars untouched. "Jimminy Christopher?" exclaimed Roderick Alphonsus, "if I'd a-known that those trousers would be worth fifty dollars at least. What a puddin' you've got, McSwyny!"

Dionysius has got back the money invested in this novel savings bank, but will hereafter fall back on the old style, a wise conclusion which we think our readers will coincide with. -N. Y. Mer-

The Greatest Trial of Speed and Endurance on Record.

In 1859 St. Joseph was the western terminus of railroad communication. Beyond the stage coach, the saddle horse and the ox trains were the only means of commerce and communication with the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific slope. In the winter of 1860 there was a Wall Street lobby at Washington trying to get $5,000,000 for carrying the mails overland one year between New York and San Francisco. The proposition was extremely cheeky, and William H. Russell, backed by Secretary of War Floyd, resolved to give the lobby a cold shower bath. He therefore offered to bet $200,000 that he could put on a mail line from Sacrature. mento to St. Joseph that should make the distance—1,950 miles—in ten days. The bet was taken and the 8th of April The bet was taken and the 8th of April fixed upon as the day for starting. Mr. Russell called upon his partner and general manager of business upon the plains, Mr. A. B. Miller, now a citizen of Denver, and stated what he had done, and asked if he could perform the feat. Miller replied: "Yes, sir; I will do it, and do it by a pony express." To accomplish this Mr. Miller purchased three hundred of the fleetest horses he could find in the West, and employed 125 men. Eighty of these men were to 125 men. Eighty of these men were to be post-riders. These he selected with reference to their light weight and their known daring and courage. It was very essential that the horses should be loaded as light as possible; therefore, the lighter the man the better. It was necessary that some portions of the route should be run at the rate of twenty miles an hour. The horses were stationed from ten to twenty miles apart, and each rider would be required to ride sixty miles. For the change of animals and the shifting of the mails two minutes were allowed. Where there were no stage stations at proper distances, tents sufficient to hold one man and two horses were provided.
Indians would sometimes give chase,
but their cayuse ponies made but sorry show in their stern chase after Miller's thoroughbreds, many of which could make a single mile in a minute and fifty

All arrangements being completed, a signal gun on the steamer at Sacramento proclaimed the meridian of April 18, to proclaimed the meridian of April 18, 1860—the hour for starting—when Border Ruffian, Mr. Miller's private saddle horse, with Billy Baker in the saddle, bounded away toward the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas, and made his ride of twenty miles in forty-nine minutes. The snows were deep in the mountains; and one rider was lost for several hours in a snow-storm; and after the Salt Lake in a snow-storm; and after the Salt Lake on time. From here all went well until the Platte was to be crossed at Julesburg. The river was up and running rapidly, but the rider plunged his horse into the flood, only, however, to mire in the quicksand and drown. The courier succeeded in reaching the shore, with his mail-bag in hand, and traveled ten miles on foot to reach the next relay. Johnny Fry, a popular rider of his day, was to make the finish. He had sixty miles to ride, with six horses to do it. When the last courier arrived at the sixty-mile post, out from St. Joseph, he was one nour behind time. A heavy rain set in and the roads were slippery. Two hundred thousand dollars might turn upon a single minute. Fry had just three hours and thirty minutes in which to win. This was the finish for the longest race, for the largest purse, ever run in America. When the time for his arrival was nearly up, at least five thousand people stood upon the river bank, with eyes turned toward the woods from which the horse and its rider should emerge into the open mile from the finish. Tick, tick, went thousands of watches! The time was nearly up! But nearly seven minutes remained! Hark! a shout goes up from the assembled multitude: "He comes! he comes!" The noble little mare, Sylph, the daughter of little Arthur, darts like an arrow from the bow and makes the run of the last mile in one minute and fifty seconds-landing upon the ferry-boat with five minutes and a fraction to spare. -St. Joseph (Mo.)

-Some exeavations commenced at the distance of about a kilometre from the walls of Pompeii, with a view to ascertaining the nature of the surroundings of the city, have led to the discovery, within an area of but a few square metres, of thirty skeletons, ten of which were huddled together in one room of a small suburban villa, and among and necklaces, earrings and other objects.

AND SPERMATORRHEA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective liemedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to bealth and sound memory, removing the Dinness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, ctc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless noatrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, leneugh to last a month, 33; No. 3, sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases, 35. The French Conscription --- Annual Drawing of Recruits for the Army.

An annual drawing for the conscription of the yearly military contingent-the French call it the Tirage au Sort-is now going on in Paris. The drawing in Paris lasts about three weeks.

The young men of each of the twenty arrondissements of the Capital are called out in their turn. The ceremony takes place on the ground floor of the Palace of Industry, in the Champs Ely-sees. A large temporary salle is formed for the reception of the recruits. At the end of it rises a platform, on which the Mayor of the district, with his tri-colored scarf, and the military authorities in mutti, are seated round a large green-baized table. The Triage takes place in alphabetical order, so many letters being called up at the same time.

Each young man has his paper containing his name, address, profession, etc., and as he ascends the platform he hands it to an official. On his name being called out the youth passes in front of the President, advances toward a kind of urn, thrusts his hand into it and draws out a number, which is at once proclaimed by another official standing by, who takes good care that the youth shall not draw two numbers or replace the one drawn by sleight-of-hand trick

—a maneuver which is sometimes attempted. As the number is announced a feeling of sympathy, whether it be a bad or a good number, is expressed by the other youths who are waiting.

Formerly those who who drew the good numbers, which are the low ones, were exempted from the service, and only the bad numbers, or high ones, had to serve; but now all of them have to enter the army, with this difference, however, that the good numbers serve only one or two years, whereas the bad ones are bound for the whole five years with the active army. A proposal now before Parliament would abolish the Tirage au Sort, by making all the recruits serve three years and a half. As the youths descend from the platform they naturally demonstrate their good or bad luck;

those who draw low numbers wave their caps with delight; the others manifest their despondency, not to say despair. These feelings, however, are calmed down and blended together as the conscripts emerge from the build-

The scene outside is even more curious than inside. Here the friends and families of the future soldiers congregate in large numbers, for they are not allowed to enter the conscription-room.

Fathers and mothers are awaiting for their sons, sisters for their brothers, and sweethearts for their lovers. Many a touching episode may be witnessed as the young man returns and announces his fate to those near and dear to him.

The first emotion over, the conscripts throw care to the winds and prepare to celebrate the day which is to mark such an important epoch in their lives. They bedeck themselves with tri-colored ribbons and rosettes, and pin the number

they have drawn, painted on colored paper, on their breasts and caps. Some of them, who belong to musical socie-ties, bring down their instruments and enliven the crowd with patriotic airs.

They next adjourn to the wine shop, where they baptize their colors and drink to the corps to which they will ere long belong. The flow of soul often goes on till dusk sets in, and then they resolve to turn home. Headed by a flag-bearer, they march through the streets

singing the "Marseillaise" and similar songs. Others who live further off club together and hire a van, which they decorate with bunting and as they drive along the boulevards, singing, shouting and laughing, the passers-by stop and gaze and maybe ask themselves where these gay recruits will lead the flag of France when the irrepressible revanche comes of.—London Standard.

—All soils are improved by mixing. The physical properties of the soil have an important influence upon its average fertility. The admixture of pure sand with clay soil produces an alteration which is often beneficial, and which is almost wholly mechanical. But with either pipe, if the water is pumped away until it is fresh there will be neither the bad taste of the iron nor the danger from the lead. The iron flavor danger from the lead. The iron flavor is not injurious, but, although it is not pleasant, is wholesome and of tonic properties. -The Chinese make tea as follows: "The tea is put in a clean tea-pot and hot water poured on it and left to stand tifteen or twenty minutes and steep. Here is the way we make our tea." He thereupon took off a cover with a cushion of cotton two inches thick on the under side and lifted out a pretty porcelain tea-pot that was nicely set in the centre of a lining stuffed around two inches or so in thickness with cotton. The tea-pot, after the boiling water is poured into it upon the necessary quantity of tea, is set in this non-conducting receptable and steeps fifteen minutes,"

-The custom of attaching clog-yokes to animals to prevent them from jumping over fences is open to many objections. The animal is more or less disfigured; often the forelegs are injured, and sometimes the neck is broken. I practiced and like much better. It is this: Take an old head-stall with a brow-band, throat-latch and nose-band going all around the nose. Get an old boot-leg, split it open, (or any piece of leather that is wide enough to extend beyond both eyes of the animal) and with copper rivets fasten this to the brow-band and the nose-band. The animal can see in front of him by bending to the right or left, but he will never jump with his neck bent or when he cannot see his way clear .- Cor. Country Gentleman.

Grafting-Grafting-Wax.

May, provided the grafts are carefully preserved—that is to say, kept in an ice-house or in a cold cellar, after the weather has become warm, to prevent their growing. We have set grafts the last day of May with as much success as at any other time, and we have known of grafting being done up to the 20th of June. When understood - and it ought to be an easy thing to learnanyone can do his own grafting. Yet due care must be taken in all the details to insure growing.

Stocks or limbs to be grafted, not over two inches in diameter, should be cut off at the distance of four inches. A fine saw should be used. Incline the saw so that the stump, if perpendicular, will shed the rain. The bark must be uninjured. With a sharp knife smooth off the sawed stump. Take a case-knife, which is as good as any, place it across the heart of the stock, and force it down with a wooden mallet. We use a very narrow screw-driver for keeping open the split. Shape the scion wedge-fashion both ways, keeping the bark intact. We make a shoulder as far up as the scion is shaved; it is not so strong, but better insures growth, The inside of the bark of both scion and stock must meet or cross, in order that the sap of the two may commingle. Set the scion at a slight angle spreading from each other. When the stock is small and only one scion inserted, place a piece of wood on the opposite side of corresponding thickness. If the slit does not close up sufficiently, tie round a cotton string to keep it tight upon the graft. Cover with wax every part of the cut wood and slit. In three weeks' time go over the grafts and re-wax if needed. It is air and rain getduring the heat of an engagement, which causes even the fighters to pause and smile. My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. These tickets are good until October 31, and are via the short line to Rock Island Kansas City, Atcheson or Council Bluffs. Full particulars and maps of route furnished on application at the ticket of-

with stabbing Collins, and Frank Shuman, charged with adultery, are the only ones held for trial to the Circuit Court. the others being locked up for drunkenness, tramping, and thieving. The only smaller than at any time for years past.

Hiram Bowen, was married at her home in Martella, Dakota, May 5, to B. B. Colborne, of Alexandria, Dakota. Mr. Colborne is civil engineer, who is at present in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, on their extensions, laying out towns and locating future Chicago's. The many friends of the bride who live here will join with those of the far West in extending well wishes. -W. T. Allen, of Shopiere, appeared before Justice Wickham the other day and complained of Elias Holmes for assaulting him. While he was about it he thought he might as well get out a war rant for another offense of like nature, committed by George Hart, July 29, 1879, almost two years ago. The two warrants were issued, but Holmes could not be found. Hart was arrested, however, and on a change of venue the case was sent to Justice Prichard, who adjourned the case until next Monday.

-John Smith, whether the only and original or not, deponent sayeth not, was on a drunk last night, and crawled into shed near the jail for rest. Turnkey Kenniston, fearing that he might set the shed on fire, by spontaneous combustion, or otherwise, hurried him out of it, and sent bim on his way home, but Smith soon after returned and became so abusive that he was locked up. To-day he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven days, and that being a holy number,

he will doubtless be wholly sober by the end of that time. -Two or three young fellows hanging about the sidewalk in front of a hetel the other evening, and who apparently were not wanted there, were given a gentle hint to go by some one dropping an egg in dangerous proximity to their good clothes. The egg was followed by another and another. Where the eggs came from was a mystery, but that they had been a long time on the road, there was no doubt, for smelling was believing. The boys will either have to get some other roosting place, or go provide I with waterproof umbrellas, with sandal wood -Last night some one threw an apple against one of the front windows of Nash & Hayner's grocery store, with such force as to smash one of the large plates of glass. Officer Smith found that the apple thrown earresponded to one of three bought a few minutes before by two young fellows who had stepped into Hill & Shurtleff's restaurant and made the purchase. By the description given Smith soon after concluded that he had got the fellows, but on their going to the restaurant to be identified, it was found that they were not the ones wanted, but proved to be two traveling men, who were at first very indignant, but who quieted down finally, and concluded to smoke and laugh over the mistake.

-Marshal Hogan's bill against the county, a portion of which had been al lowed by the County Board, and a portion disallowed, was under consideration by Judge Conger yesterday. A fell decision on all points involved has not been given, but enough was said to show that the court holds that the marshal is entitled to fees from the county, as any other officer, and that he has the right to serve a process anywhere in the county, until Monday morning next at 9 o'clock but not outside of the county. The court expressed another opinion which w'l, if ce led out, put more fe into the Sheriff's pocket and less into those of the constables and other officers. The cor: holds that when a prisoner on trial before a justice is committed, as in gan, and it is expected to be completed case of adjournment, that the she. iff cr some of his deputies must being the prisoner into court when ordered, and that the marshal or constable cannot do so, and that the sheriff or b's deputy, who thus attends a prisoner on his trie' is entitled to $1.50 a day. The question of officers' fees is getting interesting, and the chief cause of the agitation seem to be the unusual number of tramps who were 100 in last winter, causing the fees and costs of the county to swell to an un-

A POUNDED COLT.

Ward Witham, Esq., has brought a suit of replevin against Dr. C. Lofius Martin to recover possession of a colt, of which Mr. Withem claims to be the lawful owner. H's claim is that about a a year ago he put the colt out 'n pastare end that soon e lier the colt broke out, and went astray. The colt wendered into put in the pound, and on being sold for costs, Dr. Main bought it in. Dr. Matth had it. He now wants to regain possession of it, and hence the suit. The case has been set for a herring by Justice Prichard next Saturday.

Tens of thousands of dollars are squan lered yearly upon travelling quacks, who go from town to town professing to cure all the ills that our poor humanity is heir to. MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Rev. T. P. Sawin, who is Chaplain of the Bower City Rifles, has arranged to preach a sermon at the Congregational church, on to 29th of this month, ap--There are now only ten prisoners in propriate the Decoration day, which is iail. Of these Main, the barber, charged the Monday following. Mr. Sawin has extended invitations to the Bower City Rifles and Janesville Guards to attend this service, and the invitations will doubtless be accepted. This service and sermon will prove both interesting and woman is Kate Lynch, who is at work in a befitting observance, as there is no the kitchen. The number of prisoners is formal observance arranged for Monday, and no parade here, the militiamen and flavors now in the market. -Miss Ella F. Bowen, daughter of others expecting to go to Beloit.

A Significant Fact.

The cheapest medicine in use is Thomas' Eclectric Oil, because so little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the chest or throat, for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound. Sold by A J. THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE AND EVENSON DRUGGISTS The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 82 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 76 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 72 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock m., at 78 degrees above zero. Clear. The indications to-day are, for the upper lake region, partly cloudy weather,, occasional rain, southerly, veering to slightly cooler westerly winds, rising preceded in the eastern portion by falling CHILD DROWNED.

A Five Year-Old Son of Mrs. Tolles Falls into a Cistern and is Drowned. This afternoon a little five year old boy named Byron Earl, son of Mrs. Tolles, who lives on Chatham street in the First ward, while playing about the yard, fell into the cistern, and bcfore the accident was discovered the little fellow was drowned. The mother had laid down for an afternoon's nap, and was asleep while the little fellow was playing around the yard. When she awoke and called the child he did not respond, and in her search for him she looked into the cistern, seeing the cover removed; and there saw the dress of the little one floating. alarm was given, several came to the rescue among others Ed. Hubbell, who at once got the child out, but it was too late, for death had already claimed its victim.

The little fellow thus drowned was Mrs. Tolles' child by her second husband, Mr. Earl. Hêr husband is away from home at work, and she is thus left alone, to bear the blow with the exception of two children, who are both quite young.

How often persons have been annoyed by burrs clinging to their dress or clothing, and how seldom have they, when cleaning them, given it a thought that Burdock Root is the most valuable blood cleanser and purifier known, and is sold by every druggist under the name of Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1, trial size 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Sherer & Co.

"THE GALLEY SLAVE." The above entitled play of Bartley Campbell's was last night given at the Opera house to a goodly sized audience who were aroused to an unusual enthusiasm, and gave unwonted freedom to their applause. Janesville audiences are a little timid about giving applause, each seeming to wait for some one to start the noise, and then the rest gradual. ly join in, until the impression is given of a thinly began, but steadily increasing swell, but last night there was no such timidity, no such waiting. The applause and the laughter burst forth with charming spontaneity, a clear proof that the company and the play had absorbed the attention and excited the enthusiasm of all. The play itself is very cleverly constructed, and the plot is strongly put together, having many thrilling situations, and startling climaxes, and yet avoiding entirely all "arsenal" and "gore" business. There are no red lights, no gleaming butcher knives, or loud barking horse pistols, to harrow the audience, and another charming feature is that the exciting interest is happily relieved by bright wit and pleasing comedy, which lightens the strain, and gives the audience the restful change of a hearty Too much cannot be said in praise of the play and the company which so worthily presented it. It was a treat indeed. The company was well-balanced and the costames were elegant. Miss Gussie De Forest, as Cicely Blaine, gave a fine rendering of the difficult role which was hers, and Signora Majoroni, as the woman who was deserted by her husband, and subjected to various sufferings n body and mind, showed wonderful strength, and surprised and thrilled all by her powers. Clara Stoneall, made an excellent mother-in-law," ways preaching upon etiquette and upon remembances of her first husband the Major. She did some very clever work. Miss Eugene Bleir as her daughter, was vivacious and sprightly, and added much to the life and enjoyment of the groups in which she moved. Nor should little Drisy be overtooked, for she proved to be a charming little child, who acted as nature! upon the stage as though at home. Among the gentlemen Mr. Frank Evans as Sidney Norcott was strong, and by his quiet earnest ross, and his touching pathos, won the audience completely. Mr. Thomas H. Buras, as "Fitts" kept the audience in a roar by his genteel comecalities, and Junius Brutus Booth, 23 the sensible, cool headed Scotchman, used his quite humor with wonder at effect, while his facile expressions were such as to call forth a round of laughter at his will. Charles Waite took the villain's part, excellently portraying a sneering cold hearted French-

The play, and the company merit a liberal and enthusiastic patronage, where ever they appear, and fully merit the words of praise which their appearance in other cities has called forth.
